Parents, younger brothers and sisters, also a few dogs, witnessed the annual River School Halloween Parade last Friday morning. Principal, teachers and members of the office and cafeteria staffs donned costumes and marched around the playground with hundreds of pupils disguised in marvelous attire. Three of the disguised paraders were The Rag Bag, a She-Devil and Raggedy Ann, left to right above.

Mayor Appoints Committee To Study Annexation

Mayor Herbert Blanks assured some two dozen persons present at last night's city council meeting that the matter of annexing Mission Fields, Carmel Point and the Walker and Mission tracts to the city would receive "long and careful deliberation."

"No decision will be reached in haste," he added.

These statements followed the council's acceptance of a 26-page report from the planning commission and the Mayor's appointment of Councilmen Eben Whittlesey and Stephen Grant to serve as an ad hoc committee to "digest" the report. This report compares zoning in the above areas to the city's zoning laws, also relates the areas to the Carmel Master Plan.

The report also recommended approval of requests to circulate annexation petitions in these areas and gave a specified order of importance. This recommendation was based only on zoning and the master plan.

Last night, Mayor Blanks directed the ad hoc committee, in addition to the planning commission report, to study social and economic conditions in the four areas, individually and together, also the relationship of these two factors to the city's economy.

A further directive to Mr. Whittlesey, who will act as chairman of the ad hoc committee, and to Mr. Grant, was to prepare a report on both studies for the city council on December 9.

In addition, the Mayor asked the heads of all city departments to prepare reports outlining the economic aspects of any annexation to their areas of responsibility. He requested that these reports be given to the ad hoc committee on or before November 25 so the committee could have sufficient time to consider them before reporting to the council next month.

Mr. Whittlesey stated that the ad hoc committee would welcome all communications and information relative to the studies the committee had been directed to

CHRISTMAS TREE LIGHTING CEREMONY

The city council, last night, gave permission for a ceremonial lighting of the municipal Christmas tree on December 15 followed by a community parade to the Carmel Youth Center.

This action was taken in response to a letter from Pam Baldwin and Larry Little, youth center officers.

The letter requested that the tall pine at the intersection of Junipero and Ocean be lighted on the above date, also permission for youth center members to arrange for a church choir to sing at the foot of the lighted tree and for the Carmel High School Band to play Christmas music.

Following the ceremonies at the tree, the letter asked that the band be allowed to lead a parade to the Youth Center where refreshments would be served to paraders until 9:30 p.m.

Artistic Consultant To Festival Theatre Will Arrive Tuesday

Douglas Campbell, artistic consultant to the Festival Theatre Foundation, will arrive on Tuesday for five days of talks with state and community leaders. Campbell has been designated artistic director of the Minnesota Theatre Company at the Tyrone Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis. His visit will signal the start of a campaign to establish a similar theatre on the Monterey Peninsula.

Community Church Selects Pastor

The Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula will celebrate the first anniversary of its founding by formally announcing to the membership the selection of a permanent minister following a buffet dinner to be held November 12 in the Carmel Woman's Club.

The pastor of the church, which was organized with 200 charter members on November 22, 1963, will be the Reverend Burkert Cree.

He was ordained as a Presbyterian minister in 1960. His first pastorate was in Denver, Colorado, from which he was given leave for further studies in Europe.

With his wife Angelika, and their two sons, George and Tobias, Mr. Cree will make his home on Oliver Road in Mission Fields.

Also at the year-end church-wide meeting next Thursday evening, starting at 6:30 p.m., the election of officers and church department directors for 1965 will take place.

Plans For More Development At Valley Entrance

New commercial development is being planned at the entrance to Carmel Valley by Havic Corporation, new owners of Carmel Rancho shopping center, also by Carmel Properties Company on land fronting on Highway One across from Mission Fields. The latter development will be called Carmel Center.

According to George R. Walker, attorney for Havic Corporation, a new and larger facility for Safeway Stores Inc. will be constructed in Carmel Rancho across Carmel Rancho Boulevard from the present Safeway store. The Carmel architectural firm of Cranston and Elston, AIA, will design this building. George C. Bestor of Carmel is the engineer for the development.

Further plans of the new Rancho owners include moving into the next phase of development planned by the former developer of the shopping center. This takes in construction of additional shop units for which Havic Corporation is now considering tenants. Henry Hicks will start on Monday as manager and leasing agent for Carmel Rancho with an office at the shopping center, Mr. Walker adds.

Harry Bell of Carmel and San Rafael is the president of Havic Corporation which also owns La Playa Hotel in Carmel, a San Francisco garage and a medical center and commercial facility in San Rafael.

Now being studied, Mr. Walker says, are a possible motel and a multi-use auditorium at Carmel Rancho. The latter would in no way affect plans for the auditorium in the municipal and community cultural center proposed for the Sunset School site, he stresses. The auditorium at the shopping center would be oriented towards hotel-motel development at the Rancho, he indicates.

CARMEL CENTER
William L. Hudson, Charles Fuller and Francis Brown, partners in Carmel Properties Company, are planning the development of Carmel Center on 33 acres of land fronting on Highway One. This land extends eastwards to Carmel Rancho shopping center.

I care not what the Cause may be that thinks alone of victory; nor that the strong have proved their might;
but only that the Cause was right.

It matters not how came defeat,
nor curse the rain, nor blame the heat;
I hail the fact no antidote can neutralize the free-born vote.

And, if I choose to disagree, with what is written history, I must admit
I had my choice to echo this great nation's voice.

So life goes on, and old wounds revel — the wisdom of majorities is one of freedom's mysteries.

Our government survives in this:
that in the last analysis, the more there are that disagree, the better

Charlotte Clark's Interests Are Many And Embrace Not Only This Community But Also The World

By Virginia Shaw

"I'm one of those people who is interested in everything!" This, in essence, is Charlotte Clark's motivation for a total and enthusiastic involvement in the community of the world, and the world of the community.

In the 20-odd years since she and her husband, Dr. Howard E. Clark, came to Carmel, there are few community efforts in which Charlotte Clark has not participated actively: Red Cross, Community Chest, the League of Women Voters and the Carmel PTA ("I remember when Fred Godwin and I started up the first summer recreation program here!").

She has been a member of the Carmel school board and is now on the Monterey County School Districting Committee and the core committee of the area planning commission.

Mrs. Clark's current concern on the community level is for the proposed park district. "It's not enough to have scenic easements just to look at," she exclaimed. "We need places where kids can put their feet on the ground and play. Why, do you know there isn't a single place close by, outside of Point Lobos and the beach, where families can go to picnic—and Point Lobos is literally being trampled into the ground!" She also campaigned actively for Proposition One (the parks and beaches acquisition program), and served as an inspector in her election precinct in Hatton Fields.

Mrs. Clark's immediate involvement is with the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula, of which she is the first woman to be president.

Charlotte Clark's interest in world affairs was stimulated by the example of her parents—her father was the first president of the Foreign Policy Association in Minneapolis—and her study of political science in college, also graduate work in Bryn Mawr as recipient of a Susan B. Anthony Scholarship. But her real concern with world and community crystallized, she feels, during an extended period of illness.

"It made an important difference in my life," remembers Mrs. Clark; "When you're ill, you come to realize that time is so important. I found myself wanting to make some sort of contribution to life."

Illness seems a total stranger to Mrs. Clark now. Tall, handsome, with bright eyes and pink cheeks and a presence fairly crackling with vitality, she seems to delight in the opportunities life has offered her. "I've always felt the world is such an exciting place," she laughs. "What good is it if we're all at each other's throats? There's got to be understanding of other people, everywhere."

Since Mrs. Clark took over as president last June, the World Affairs Council has been host to distinguished citizens of Taiwan, Thailand, Jamaica, Germany, Egypt, Korea, the Dominican Republic, the Ivory Coast, Spain and Japan.

Her activities on the council are augmented by serving on the Citizens' Committee for International Students at MPC. This group sees to it that visiting foreign students are made to feel at home here and given the chance to enjoy local events and recreations, as well as to witness the workings of government in Sacramento.

Not surprisingly, Mrs. Clark is an inveterate traveller herself. Since their marriage, she and Dr. Clark have seen most of the world. Next Spring, they anticipate exploring Guatemala and Yucatan. Looking farther ahead, Mrs. Clark hopes to see more of the East—Hong Kong, Singapore, Ceylon, India. During the war, Dr. Clark served at a Douglas Aircraft Company hospital in Eritrea, and subsequently was invited to serve as personal physician to Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia. The invitation was declined; but the Clarks would still like to see more of that part of the world.

Their children have inherited the Clarks' ways: their son, Elton, a Southern California banker, is currently touring Europe with his wife. Their daughter, Priscilla (Mrs. John Becker), resides in New Brunswick, Canada, as wife of the U.S. vice-consul in St. John. Last year, the Clarks enjoyed an extended visit in Germany with the Beckers—primarily to be on hand for the birth of their first grandchild.

Before the baby's arrival, the Clarks and Priscilla took an adventurous 20-day bus trip through Yugoslavia and Greece. The other passengers were all German, "which put some strain on my limited French and Howard's limited German," remarks Mrs. Clark.

Right now, Charlotte Clark isn't giving much thought to travel. "There's too much to do here!"

And in a society which at times seem obsessed with how to stay young, vital and happy, her solution is worth considering: Be concerned; consider how wonderful the world is, and how much better it can be. Then get involved, and do something about it.

Georgian Lectures At Carmel Church

The only practical thing to do is to "love your enemies," said a Christian Science lecturer in Carmel on Monday.

In religion as well as in politics, beautiful theories aren't enough—it's the "practical use" that counts, declared Harry S. Smith.

Mr. Smith's lecture was sponsored as a public event by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel. The speaker was introduced by the first reader, Mr. Mack.

Mr. Smith is a recognized teacher and practitioner of Christian Science in Atlanta, Georgia, and is currently on tour as a member of the board of lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. Title of his lecture was "Practical Christianity."

PIANIST DELIGHTS WOMAN'S CLUB

by Myrtle Stoddard

The concert given by Felix De Cola at the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday was enthusiastically received by members and guests. Mr. De Cola's ability as a musician is remarkable. To illustrate his humorous anecdotes he played brilliantly both popular and classic numbers. His delightful humor kept his audience applauding and laughing and he paid tribute to the president, Mrs. Cleary, by taking four letters in her name and improvising a charming piece. He was so informal in his attitude that members felt as though a friend had dropped into their livingroom. He even stood up and, with his back to the piano, played one number.

Talented Pupils Attend Lyceum Art Workshops

Two new art workshops, one in pencil painting and one in weaving, are included in the autumn art program of the Lyceum which arranges for outstanding personalities in various fields to share their skills with children who show special aptitudes. These children are selected from public and private schools on the Peninsula.

Chairman of the pencil painting workshop at Carmel High School for 20 students in grades 8-12 each Thursday afternoon for four weeks, beginning today, is Mrs. Harry I. Borden.

Mary A. Lansdowne is the volunteer teacher for this workshop. Mrs. Lansdowne has studied at Scripps College, California School of Fine Arts, University of Mexico, California Western University, American University and others. She has taught oil painting at the National Naval Medical Center, for the Montgomery County Board of Education and the California Board of Education.

Mrs. Annette Zang Thorn is chairman for the weaving workshop which is being conducted in two rooms of the former nurses' quarters at the old Community Hospital, now the Carmel Convalescent Hospital. For five Saturday afternoons, ending November 21, nine students each work at a separate loom.

The contributing artist is Mary Balzer Buskirk, a local weaver, who has exhibited her wall hangings and rugs internationally. She holds the AB and MFA degrees and has completed studies at the University of Minnesota and Cranbrook Academy of Arts. Mrs. Buskirk has exhibited by invitation at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts, New York; Detroit Institute of Arts; Cleveland Museum; Chicago Art Institute; Victoria and Albert Museum of London; and U.S. Information Agency Exhibition circulated through Europe.

Miss Nancy Johnson is consultant to the chairmen of both workshops.

The major cost of supplies for each workshop is paid through the Lyceum through a grant received from the Monterey Peninsula Volunteers Services organization. Students are asked to contribute toward the cost of materials they may use or take home. However, the cost of supplies does not keep a student from participating in the Lyceum workshops as scholarships are available. Cost to the students for the pencil painting class is $1.00. Four dollars per pupil is the charge for the weaving workshop.

Hunting News

It is now open season for quail hunting. Daily bag and total possession limit is ten birds.

Wild pig season in Monterey county opened last month and will continue until April 4.

Deer season ends on Sunday, the California Department of Fish and Game reminds hunters.

And for those hunters who are looking for truly big game, bear season in California is open through January 3. The limit is two bear per season.

The season for taking beaver opened last Sunday and will run through February in Amador, Calaveras, Alpine, Inyo, Mono, El Dorado, Placer and Nevada counties. There is no limit on beaver in these areas.

LOCAL ITEMS ON AGENDA OF COUNTY PLANNERS

Items on the Tuesday agenda of the Monterey County Planning Commission from the Carmel area are a request for a reduction in side yard setback requirements from Max Hodges; addition to lot coverage, E. A. Edlind; reduction in front yard setback requirements, Paul Riebe.

Also on the agenda are requests for use permits for two hotels in Carmel Highlands. Both Highlands Inn, Inc. and Tickle Pink, Inc. are seeking permission for additions to their premises.

New Play Opening At Studio Friday

A newcomer to the Carmel little theatre scene, Roy Baxter, and a popular favorite in comedy roles, Myrtle Rose Craig, will play the leads in the Studio Theatre's production of "A Thousand Clowns" opening tomorrow night.

Mr. Baxter received his B.A. in theatre at the Pasadena Playhouse. He has studied with Joe Graham, talent coach for Warner Brothers and Miss Rachel Rosenthal. During the past ten years he has been associated with 20th Century-Fox and Desilu Productions. Excelling in comedy roles, Mr. Baxter will make his Carmel debut in the demanding characterization of Murray Burns, an outer-fringe personality.

Myrtle Rose Craig, with a background of professional theatre, motion pictures, and T.V. might be called a veteran of Studio Theatre hits. The role of Sandra gives Miss Craig a rare opportunity to display her great versatility.

Having just completed a night club engagement in San Francisco, Ray Cadena couldn't resist a return to the Studio, to play the zany role of Chuckles the Chipmunk in the forthcoming production.

Paul Elliott, who will appear as Murray's younger brother, Arnold, played a leading role in the Studio's "Sunday in New York." Mr. Elliott is studying Russian at the Defense Language Institute.

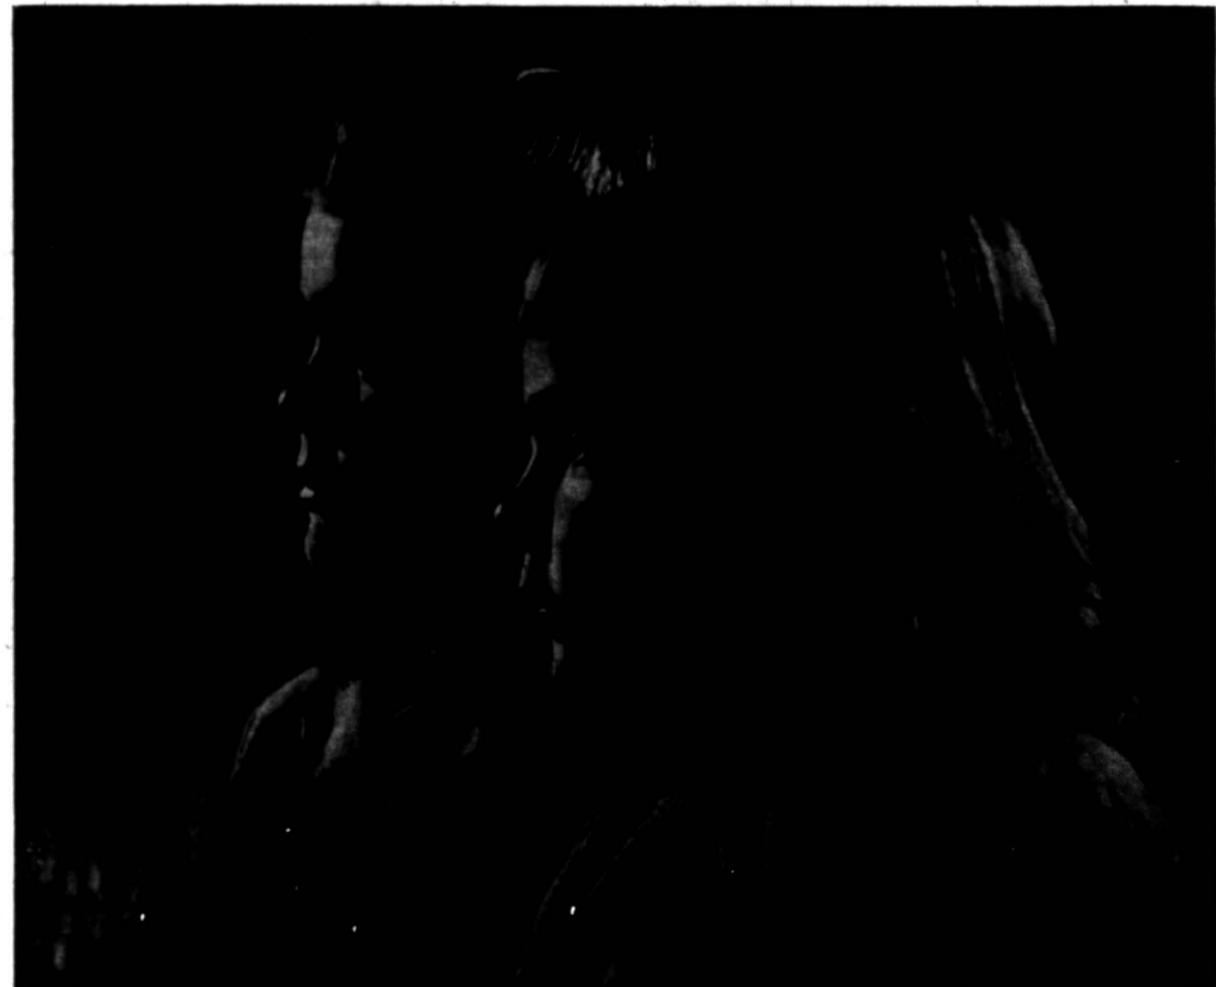

Rod Allison, who will portray the role of an eccentric social worker, is no stranger to the area. He appeared with Studio Theatre director Michael Keller six years ago in the old Wharf Theatre's presentation of "The King and I."

As the precocious 12-year-old, prime cause of complications, Bob Huber, a ninth grader at Carmel Junior High School, promises uproarious laughter. He was last seen at the Studio in "Bye Bye Birdie."

"A Thousand Clowns" will play weekend evenings, at 8:30 p.m. Dinner is served from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Miss Katherine Durand was driving a bright and shiny automobile south along Dolores, between Seventh and Eighth, enjoying Tuesday's bright sunshine.

She doesn't know quite why, but she looked north. Her car swerved curbward—and smash—into the trusty vehicle belonging to the Pine Cone social editor.

Properly locked, with the emergency brake on, Carolyn Elstob's car was smartly jolted some five feet. An intrepid veteran, it suffered nary a scratch. But! . . . Miss Durand's car wept from its radiator, a sadly crumpled mess.

The unhappy owner rushed off to a drugstore to tell her waiting friends.

She tripped on the curb, and broke her ankle.

Last seen she was enroute to Community Hospital via taxi.

Her vote for the day? . . . Never look north when you are driving south.

They've been playing "musical desks" at city hall, but unlike the children's game with a similar name, everyone at city hall ended up sitting in a chair and is a happy winner.

The result of all the desk shifting is a new look—modern and airy—in the city clerk's department.

Budgeted this year were new desks for Director of Planning Floyd Adams and Building Inspector Dick Thomas. But Dick liked Karla Poff's desk in city hall . . . Floyd liked City Clerk Hugh Bayless's desk . . . so a swap was arranged.

As a result, everyone at city hall now sits at new mustard colored desks with durable plastic tops, which look like wood, atop stainless steel legs.

And the city saved money, to boot.

Fred Leidig has joined those golfers eligible for a trip to Scotland for two . . . and $1,000. He got into this group by shooting a hole-in-one recently and was automatically entered in a competition with the trip and the money as a prize. The winner will be announced in January.

This is Cat Week—International and Gus Arriola featured a feline Monday night in his comic strip.

I wonder who the lady was that was moved, while walking in the dark across a Carmel Highlands moor to the Ansel Adams' party for Fred Farr on Sunday night, to eerily wail "Heathcliff."

Mayor Herbert Blanks has borrowed an idea from Father Time. He now has a miniature hourglass to time councilmen's speeches and used it the first time last week, also made City Attorney John Morse official timer.

Each councilman was allowed to speak on matters in the Citizens Committee letter to the council for six minutes. Mr. Morse warned them when they hit the last few seconds of their allotted time and only Councilman Stephen Grant didn't need this warning. He ended his remarks with three minutes "in the bank."

The timing device looks suspiciously like a kitchen gadget that would allow each councilman to end up hard-boiled . . . but a good egg, of course.

At the same meeting, Admiral Fisher, president of the Carmel Citizens Committee, eloquently urged the council to strive to prevent any insidious destruction of the character of Carmel.

"Make sure termites don't undermine it," he admonished.

"Heaven forbid," interposed the Mayor.

Resultant laughter showed that the audience was fully aware of the fact that the Mayor is in the you-know-what control business.

Each year Linus waits in that pumpkin patch. Never does the Great Pumpkin appear.

I think I know the answer.

Again this year Christmas tree decorations and such were for sale in the stores before Hallowe'en. I think the Great Pumpkin doesn't go along with Linus's fantasy because he's afraid of confusing other small children about Santa Claus. Linus has him mixed up with the jolly man in the red suit already . . . and no wonder with all the bright baubles of Yuletide on display in the shops in October.

Council Approves Bid For Surfacing Junipero Avenue

The above actions were a result of a previous recommendation by Councilman Stephen Grant that a municipal code commission be formed to study and make recommendations on the revision of the present city laws.

Mr. Grant had suggested this revision be done so that the municipal code would reflect the policies of the city council and the desires of the citizens as well as conforming to federal and state requirements.

Last night, Mr. Whittlesey said revision of the code was "a complicated and sophisticated process," and should be done by qualified experts.

He thought a municipal code commission made up of councilmen, the city attorney, city clerk and one member-at-large, as suggested by Mr. Grant, "would not be a fertile source of real accomplishment."

Other matters decided by the council were to deny an appeal on a decision of the building inspector which required an additional stairway for a shop in Pine Inn; closing out the artist-in-residence fund; authorization of a deposit fund for donations received at free Forest Theater programs sponsored by the arts commission, and that these funds be used for the furtherance of these programs.

The council also adopted the ordinance raising the hostelry tax to four percent; and gave first

Co-chairmen of the decorations committee are Joe Broadman, art teacher and Wade Rose, a student.

The refreshments committee heads are Mrs. Mary Jane Aldrich and students Tom Aldrich, Kim Dennis and Julie Fehring.

Programs were produced by Nancy Vartabedian and Mickey Marinkovich.

Mrs. Frank Kelsey, chairman of the clean-up committee, will be assisted by Dee Kelsey and Barbara Thompson.

Members of the executive board of the Jr. High School Parents Club who will act as chaperones are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Newman, joint presidents of the Parents Club, Mrs. Ralph Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Read, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Demarest, Mr. and Mrs. Don Harrison, Mrs. Robert Ingalls and Mrs. Janet Roberson, secretary, also faculty member Lloyd Baskerville.

Music for dancing, from 8 to 10:30 o'clock, will be provided by the Imperials. Girls will wear the traditional Sadie Hawkins burlap costumes. The boys will don jeans or overalls and "noisy" shirts.

Woman's Club Meeting

The Carmel Woman's Club second bridge and canasta meeting, with Mrs. Anthony Marino as card chairman, will be held Monday at 12:30 p.m. The new tables will be used for the first time. Mrs. Marino asks that the custom of the members bringing a sandwich and the club furnishing the dessert and coffee be revived.

NSA Luncheon

Grayce McKay of Carmel gave a number of her "light-hearted" readings to members of the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the National Secretaries Association and their guests, at a luncheon meeting held October 24 in the Community Room of the Casa Estrada, the recently rehabilitated old adobe in Monterey.

The occasion was the second annual Executive Wives Luncheon, a day set aside, by secretaries of the Monterey Peninsula to honor the wives of their bosses.

Miss McKay was especially invited to entertain the group by one of the members who had the pleasure of hearing her delightful rendition of Hamlet, when the member was a young girl of eleven. Grayce captivated her audience with "The Bowery Girl Sees Hamlet," "Itchy Scratchy" and the "Butterfly and Bee." The readings were interspersed with humorous accounts of people and places surrounding the giving of her special style entertainment.

Daughter of a Wall Street broker, Grayce McKay was educated for the concert stage but later developed her own comic interpretations of so-called "high-brow" characters. During World War II she was known to thousands of U.S. servicemen who passed the hours at the USO in Monterey, and since those years has continued to delight audiences gathered at club groups throughout Northern California.

USNPGS Program

In tempo with the press and displays in the shops, members of the Officers' Wives Club of the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School are preparing well in advance, for a beautiful Christmas.

The evening of November 19, Virginia Stanton, author of "Guide to Successful Entertaining" and party editor of House Beautiful magazine will be featured in "A Night With Virginia Stanton."

Mrs. Stanton will design and display unique decorative arrangements for the forthcoming holiday season. She will also give suggestions on menus and party planning.

The program will be given in the Bali Room of the Postgraduate School, with wives of Ordinance Engineering officers acting as hostesses.

Reservations, due by noon November 17, may be made by calling Mrs. James E. Tucker.

Every Saturday night . . . outstanding cuisine from 7 to 10 p.m., gay music from 7 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. For reservations, telephone MA 4-3811. Gate fee refunded with all meals in dining room.

New Bookshop Owners

Recently arrived in Carmel are Dalton Hatch and Greg Solis, who have bought Sam Colburn's bookshop on Dolores near Fifth Avenue.

The two young men, who are supervising the redecoration of the shop, are highly experienced in their field having owned and operated a bookshop in Modesto for the past five years.

Mr. Hatch, a Stanford University graduate, has, he states, been a Carmel visitor since he was two years old, and is a fourth generation Californian. He will be responsible for the buying of the clothbound, paperback, and juvenile books to be featured in the Carmel shop.

Greg Solis was born and grew up in Evanston, Illinois, and attended Lincoln College.

Interested in music and drama as well as literature, both young men are looking forward to participating in Carmel's community life.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thorneburg

This is the age of the big beautiful art book, but librarians often wish that happy little publishers would remember that library shelves come one size only and even spacing them farther apart fails to take care of most of these beauties. This by way of introduction to PARIS IN COLOR by Marcel Brion with pictures by Willy Ronis. It's the pictures of course! Beautiful, some reproductions of drawings and others color photographs, but all beautiful, all beautiful.

John Fischer, who is editor of Harper's Magazine, has a collection of clever essays on a variety of subjects. The collection is entitled THE STUPIDITY PROBLEM AND OTHER HARASSMENTS. He speaks on a variety of subjects and under ordinary circumstances this would be a book to read a bit here and there and sort of enjoy adding to the thoughts you already have on a few subjects. But this one is different. Start at the beginning and just try to put it down. Just try that!

The next book is KNOW-HOW IN THE SURF by John Bloomfield, who is an Australian and a surfing champion. This is a book for beginners. Some things are particularly true in Australia and not here, but those can be ignored. Surf is surf, and this rapidly gaining sport causes us to have many demands for information which is factual and reliable.

Once upon a time there was a young man by the name of Ralph Edwards who had a deep yearning to go out into the wilderness and there make himself a place and a life. So he betook himself by boat and footpower to a remote section of British Columbia and near a lake which he named Lonesome Lake, he made a home. There he took his bride, and there they raised their children. Rugged people, these, who could love and tame a bit of wild country and make themselves a happy life. The book about them is by Leland Stowe and the book is called CRUSOE OF LONESOME LAKE. Not deathless literature, but interesting, by golly! What people these were!

Court life in Ancient Japan is the sub-title of the book THE WORLD OF THE SHINING PRINCE by Ivan Morris, a professor at Columbia University. A factual book, this one, but written in easy form which makes it interesting reading. There are notes, and what-not.

THE LONG DEATH: THE LAST DAYS OF THE PLAINS INDIANS is by Ralph Andrist, who writes very well indeed. The book is illustrated with many photographs, mostly from the Smithsonian Institution, and a few diagrams and maps. There is a detailed account of the battle of the Little Bighorn. This is the story of the tragedy of the Indians. We have another book on Indians this week, this one a collection of word portraits of twelve great Indian leaders, many of whom are included in the first book noted above. Written by Fayne Porter, it is entitled OUR INDIAN HERITAGE. Devoting a chapter to each famous Indian included in the twelve, the author has added material at the end of the book on Indian legends and stories. This is a more popular book than the first one discussed here.

A covey of good books this week, but one-sided because we have no new fiction, except in the McNaughton collection. Shop for new novels there.

Art News . . .

Today, the November show of the work of active members opened at the Carmel Art Association Galleries. This exhibition will continue until December 3. Beth Garcia was chairman of the hanging committee.

A special showing of paintings that may be rented will be hung in the Beardsley Room November 26 - December 3.

The galleries maintained by the Carmel Art Association are artist-owned, also the oldest, exhibition rooms in Carmel.

Sculptures in marble and bronze executed by Emile Norman on a recent visit to Europe will be shown starting Monday at this artist's exhibition gallery on Mission Street. An invitational preview of the show will be on Sunday.

Miss Esther Maude Williams will exhibit her watercolors at the Carmel Foundation Town House during November.

Her works have won national awards and been exhibited at the National Mellon Art Gallery, Washington, D.C.; Carnegie Gallery, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; and the Haggan Art Museum, Stockton.

The public is invited to view the paintings from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. daily.

The annual Parents' Day at the Robert Louis Stevenson School, which will be held on Saturday, will feature a display of paintings by distinguished artists which has been arranged by the school art director, Richard Pearsall. The paintings on display will be for sale, and a portion of the proceeds will go to the Stevenson School building fund.

A new collection of Monte's paintings will be exhibited at the Laky Galleries this month. These pictures, all painted by the young Utah artist in Europe this year, will be shown through November 27 starting Saturday.

William Monte Anderson's art is strong, honest and exciting in color, movement and intent. Its form is new. While not representational, Monte's work is neither abstract nor non-objective but presents reality spiritualized.

Some of the works in Monte's coming show at the Laky Galleries will be included in his exhibition in Paris next Spring.

"MAN: GLORY, JEST AND RIDDLE"—A Survey of the Human Form Through the Ages, is the title of an exhibition to be held simultaneously at San Francisco's three major museums starting Tuesday and continuing through January 3.

This is the first time that San Francisco's three museums have cooperated in organizing a joint exhibition. A meaningful selection of works of art have been carefully chosen to illustrate the ways in which the human figure has been represented since the very beginnings of art. The show will encompass paintings and sculpture dealing with the human form from ancient times through the 17th century at the M. H. de Young Memorial Museum; from the 18th and 19th centuries of European and American schools at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor; and from 1900 to the present day at the San Francisco Museum of Art.

Rex Brandt will judge entries for the annual Clam Festival Art Show (November 11-16) of the El Camino Art Association Inc. in Pismo Beach. Pictures have been received for this exhibition from 35 states.

Richard Yip will conduct a painting safari to Mexico in December. The group of water colorists will travel by chartered bus to paint in the Guaymas-San Carlos Bay area for 12 days with headquarters in Mexico at a Guaymas hotel. Further information may be obtained by writing Box 462, Fairfax, California.

Miss Alice Seckels and Mrs. Marie B. Sales are co-chairmen of the arts and music committee at Carmel Valley Manor. The art exhibits, Miss Seckels states, are devoted to the works of the residents, many of them widely known painters, sculptors and craftsmen.

Church in The Round Announces Speaker

An army officer's problems in imbuing youthful World War I draftees with a will to win and, if necessary, to die for a cause, started next Sunday's lay speaker at Church in the Round on an examination of philosophical concepts which he will discuss under the title "Christianity's Contribution to Freedom."

Colonel C. A. DeCamp is a descendant of a Huguenot family which emigrated to America 300 years ago in a search for religious liberty. His roots in freedom, he says, run deep, and he has spent much thought in finding an understanding and furthering a concept of freedom vital enough to die for. Some of his conclusions are based in Christianity which, he says, makes freedom "a priceless possession which men both live and die for."

Having graduated from the U.S. Naval Training Center in San Diego, Charles R. (Chuck) Benson is spending his leave at home, visiting his parents, the Ray Bensons, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fonteneau, also catching up on news with many of his old school friends.

A graduate of Carmel schools, Chuck was, as a second and third grader at Sunset, one of the Carmel Pine Cone's star newsboys. Upon return to duty he will go on a six-month sea cruise.

The usual talkback will follow the coffee break in the service which is held at 11:02 a.m. in American Legion Hall, Dolores near Eighth.

ALL RESIDENTS MAY USE MPC LIBRARY

Any citizen in the Monterey Peninsula Junior College District, which includes Carmel, Carmel Valley and Carmel Highlands, is eligible to borrow books from the college library on presentation of local identification such as a driver's license, college officials announce.

The library will be open to students, faculty and the public on Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

During the week, the 23,000-book plant is open from 7:45 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and from 7:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Fridays.

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

LITTLE RED SCHOOLHOUSE BURNED

The little, one-room, red schoolhouse, a landmark on Highway One in Big Sur, has passed from the scene. Last Thursday, to the surprise and consternation of many members of the community, they saw the memory-filled building razed by fire—a fire intentionally set by personnel of the Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park under the direction of Donald D. Royer, park supervisor.

The building was situated on state park property and under long-range plans of Pfeiffer State Park, that location is to become a new entrance to the park and a parking area. The existing entrance to the park has long been considered a hazard with ingress and egress on a curve of Highway One. The need for additional parking facilities is very evident, especially during the summer season, when peak occupancy and use of the park causes congestion and forces visitors to park their cars in undesignated areas.

The school, which disappeared from the Sur Coast last week, was used as the Captain Cooper Elementary School until January 1963. At that time 59 students and three teachers moved into their new, three-classroom building, built on a magnificent site overlooking the Big Sur country.

Early schools in the area date back to before the turn of the century. About 1875 a school was established at the home of an early settler, Michael Pfeiffer, near the mouth of Sycamore Canyon and served the needs of the four Pfeiffer children and several others who boarded there, making the required number of 11 needed to conduct a school.

It wasn't long before a schoolhouse was built in Sycamore Canyon and it was attended by the Post, Rico and Pfeiffer families. A few years later the population center changed, and W. Bernard Post, a pioneer of the Big Sur, gave a plot of land near the family home and a school building was built there.

In 1910 the population center "moved back to the Canyon" and the Sycamore Canyon school was opened again. Children who lived within three miles walked to school, others rode horseback.

In the early '20's, a school was erected near the present outdoor theater within the park and used for a brief period. During the ten years that famed Highway One was under construction, and realignment, Seaview School District was formed in the southern part of the existing Pfeiffer School District, near Free Camp (Krenkle Korners) and served the needs of the families of construction workers. During this time the school house on the Post property served the needs of children in that area. In 1943 Seaview School was disbanded and the district rejoined Pfeiffer School District.

When the State Park was established and became the general center of population, there was need for the education of the park personnel families. Thus it was that the little, red schoolhouse was built along Highway One, near the state highway main-

HOWARD BRUNN NOW IN REAL ESTATE

Howard Brunn, one of Carmel's most enterprising young men, has entered a new field. He is now associated with Carmel Realty.

Formerly owner of a men's clothing shop, also a gourmet food store, both in Pine Inn, he still owns Mark Fenwick, a women's clothing shop in Carmel Plaza with his wife, Courtney. The Bruns also recently opened a branch of this business in the Stevens Creek shopping center in Santa Clara county.

Howie is past president of the Carmel Business Association and is currently vice president of the board of trustees of the Festival Theatre Foundation of California. This group has undertaken to establish a professional repertory company in this area for a season of great plays.

The Pfeiffer School District passed from the scene in July 1963 when the district became a part of the Carmel Unified School District.

IT'S OUR ANNIVERSARY

Once again our anniversary date has rolled around and this year there have been some changes made. We have enlarged our office, have expanded our services to include American Mutual Listing Service as well as our other local, state and national affiliations, and we have added delightful Fran Mauer to our staff. Guy Stohr and Helen Ireland have continued to serve our clients with their own brands of friendly, conscientious effort. Our secretary, Ruth Clampett, continues to be our cherished secret weapon. We have grown no less sentimental in the year just past and this year, as always, we would like to repeat the ad with which we began our business as a kind of renewed pledge to our clients.

"CLEAN THE CUSPIDORS"

In my first real estate office job (I was 14) I copied documents, filed things, and weekly polished the three brass cupidors. I don't know that this experience was valuable as far as real estate goes, but I can still remember what my boss said in assigning me the latter job: "There's only one way to run a real estate office: everything has to be CLEAN." An old-fashioned idea to which we still cling. We promise our clients that the properties we list and offer for sale have "clean" financing-mortgages from stable lenders which are safe to assume; that our properties will be fairly priced for today's market; that all facts regarding them will be available to our buyers. If your home is available, or if you want to buy a new one, we would like to show you how old-fashioned real estate service can help make this your happiest year.

Plans For More Development At Valley Entrance

Access to proposed Carmel Center will be over an extension of Rio Road going east of Highway One and south of existing apartment development to join Carmel Rancho Boulevard.

The county planning commission has approved this extension and, Mr. Hudson says, Carmel Properties Company hopes to begin construction of the road before Christmas.

Carmel Center will be developed, he says according to the county formula for such projects. This requires that 25 percent of the site be structures, 65 percent parking and ten percent landscaping.

According to preliminary plans submitted by Mr. Hudson to the Monterey County Planning Commission on October 27, Carmel Center will have two large stores, 41,000 and 24,500 square feet in area, respectively.

A total of 81,000 square feet will be developed in smaller stores and 25,000 square feet in professional offices. A restaurant, 13,500 square feet in area, is also planned for Carmel Center.

In addition, included in Carmel Center will be a motel of 125-150 units and two service stations. One of the latter, it is hoped will be located on Highway One, Mr. Hudson says.

A total of 2,227 cars will be accommodated in Carmel Center parking lots.

The Monterey County Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on rezoning of the 33-acre Carmel Center land on November 24.

BETTER CLEAN POWER

Clean power, non-human violence: it is good to see this ocean west of the world. The world has gone almost too far in our time, its evils have built missile on missile of violence, and still the pile grows toward wholesale destruction... What else? annihilation of life?

We watch the Pacific, its legions of waves coming up to the foot of our bluff; and a far haze-horizon, grey fog bank above it. What is the future of man?... to build and destroy, and build and destroy both his greatness, and at last himself with it!

No one has the answer, but madness... is rooted in evil... Better clean power, mindless Pacific, non-human violence assaulting the base of our bluff for forever...

A LONELY VISITATION

Between us now there yawns a chasm: though pleasantly you smile, I feel that your enthusiasm is dampered, banked awhile.

I did not mean to wet your fire; I've journeyed here to find the ancient glow that could inspire my yesterdays to mind.

THE DESERT SCULPTOR

The wind knows the waves he carves cannot float Canoes, water-skiers, or a large motor boat. He knows graceful fish fins will not be fanned In the deeply ridged ripples of wayward sand.

The wind will not harm the desert abode. Of the Gila monster, rattlesnake or toad. And the loneliest thing in the tall, tall sky Is the lone, golden eagle flying that high.

NONEE NOLAN

THE ADVENTUROUS ONES by De Vender

I searched for gold of a different kind When I roamed the country of Forty-Nine; I wanted a piece of the West as mine, To keep for life as a special find. By the dusty trail that they left behind, The brave and the wicked from Forty-Nine, Flowers now bloom on a barren mine, And the silvery streams no longer remind Of water tinged with gold and blood. Still they are here, the adventurous ones, That rushed the hills like a surging flood: Of Mother Lode, the daughters and sons! Tucked in my heart and richer than gold, A wistful romance that will never grow old.

Circle's 'Venus Observed' Unique Entertainment . . . Hilarious, Too

All Hallow's Eve was a fitting night for the opening of Christopher Fry's "Venus Observed" at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. The poetic comedy's fantastic characters and the story they unfold are indeed the stuff dreams are made of.

In a profusion of poetic license, through sheer brilliance of phrasing, Christopher Fry presents his delightfully mad ensemble, each an individual, obviously on his or her own. Of wickedness, scheming and illicit love there is plenty. "Venus Observed" is hilarious, it is beautiful, it is unique entertainment, and the Circle Theatre's director, Frederick Rider, and his hand-picked cast, well deserved the audience delight and applause awarded them on Friday night.

In the role of the Duke of Alair, Fred Rider sets the pace, picking his way through absurd situations and the preposterous comedy which forms the frail structure of the play.

It is in the slim beautiful hands of Perpetua, daughter of the Duke's rascally estate manager, that the burden of Fry's poetic tale lies, like a delicate flower. The choice of Marcia Kuster Rider for the role of Perpetua afforded this captivating actress opportunity to bring all her charm, her sensitivity, gaiety and maturity into play. Her performance would, this reviewer is convinced, win a shout of bravo, from the author himself.

Dick Bird, as the father of Perpetua, a man of dry wit who dallies in the Duke's meadow with larcenous abandon, plays his role carefully, and, before the evening is over, when his snores bring down the curtain, the little touches of characterization have built a solid performance.

Marcia Hovick, one of the Duke's three mistresses who would become stepmothers, seemed a little unhappy in her role of an actress. As always, Mrs. Hovick's beautiful voice was a delight.

Much needed pure comic relief, in the form of Jessie Dill, was furnished by the incomparable Ruth Marion McElroy, who, as the uncompromising and blatant ex-love of the Duke, regales the audience with her "dead-pan" earthy humor.

Hilda, mistress number three, as played by Gertrude Chappell, is in nice contrast, the author's gesture to conventional marriage.

The Duke's son is another one of Fry's young men not too far removed from the stables. The characterization, in the hands of Terry Poland, mixes the right amount of filial devotion with jealousy for Perpetua's favors.

John Seeley, as the comic footman, has an extraordinarily authentic cockney accent, but the burglar side of his character is reminiscent of New York's east side, rather than London.

Allen Weinfield, as lion tamer turned butler is uproariously funny, playing the part with characteristic gusto and an amazingly

PINE CONE BLDG (Dolores Street between 7th & 8th) CARMEL

Harold Nielsen, left above, sent the Pine Cone this picture. He says he and one of the girls on the tour he is taking are "all dressed up in Japanese marriage clothes."

Mr. Nielsen has seen some of the Olympic Games in Tokyo and reports that "The Japanese have done a terrific job in getting everything in order."

He also had a ride on the 120-mile-an-hour train—"nothing like it in the United States, a beautiful train" and played some golf on the Kiwanis course—"one of the three greatest in the world. I have never seen the equal."

Visitor From Japan

A distinguished visitor from Japan, Shin Kugoimoto, chief of Japan's foreign affairs department, social and international cultural exchange, was entertained at luncheon on Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Porter.

Having spent 18 years in China, Mr. Porter has made many visits to Japan, and asked his guest, who was accompanied by a State Department interpreter, many questions concerning present day life in Tokyo.

"Mr. Kugoimoto is, I understand, a Japanese Sol Hurok," Mr. Porter said. "Most fascinating were his comments on the Kabuki (Japanese theatre) and the amazing school, where very young girls, under the strictest discipline, are trained as singers and dancers to appear in revues of Parisian sophistication."

Mr. Porter, who spent four years in a Japanese concentration camp during World War II, found exchanging reminiscences with his guest, who has been interned by the British and then the French at Saigon, for four years, fascinating and illuminating.

"I served French rather than American dishes," Mrs. Porter said, "because I was sure our guests had already been feted with every known American recipe." Following luncheon, the Porters took their guests to Point Lobos and on a tour of Monterey Peninsula beauty spots.

That evening the Japanese visitors were guests at a party given for Senator Fred Farr by Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Adams of Carmel Highlands.

Mr. Kugoimoto, on an extensive tour of United States, left Carmel on Monday.

His Carmel visit was arranged by the local World Affairs Council.

Harry Downie Was Chosen 'El Capitan'

La Fiesta de San Carlos de Borromeo, patron saint of Carmel Mission Basilica, attracted over 3,000 persons to the historic structure on Sunday afternoon.

Fair weather continued until the sun set in a saffron glow behind the buildings surrounding the Mission's central courtyard and, as darkness fell, the last of over 2,000 people were served chicken barbecue over fires which had sent plumes of smoke far into the air since noon.

Harry Downie, responsible for much of the restoration of the Mission established by Father Junipero Serra almost 200 years ago, was named "El Capitan". He was presented with a medal by the Reverend Edward Poschen, co-ordinator of the festival sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, Junipero Serra School Mothers' Club, the Catholic Daughters and Altar Society.

Alessandro Onessimo, one of the last descendants of the Castanoan Indians who were converted to Christianity by Father Serra, was introduced to persons at the fiesta by Mr. Downie. These Indians helped build the Mission, also took part in the early fiestas of the Mission's patron saint and established the "El Capitan" tradition.

Revived after a lapse of 27 years, La Fiesta de San Carlos de Borromeo on Sunday had a Spanish-American atmosphere, considerably enhanced by the mariachi band of Manuel Campos, also dancers in the courtyard, many of them wearing Mexican hats and garments.

Proceeds from the memorable occasion will be used for further restoration of the Mission.

How much should a funeral cost?

The simple answer is—never more than you can afford. Can the love of a family ever be measured in dollars and cents? Many people do, however, overspend, because of the pressure and confusion of the moment. Your inquiry as to costs in advance of need is good insurance against overspending. We invite your questions.
